

Faculty of Law
Term Adjunct Position Available
Academic Year 2017/18

Posting Date: April 5, 2017

Closing Date: April 27, 2017

The Faculty of Law, Queen's University invites applications from suitably-qualified applicants for the following course offered during the 2017-2018 academic year.

Qualifications:

Qualifications include a Ph.D. (preferred) or LL.M., prior relevant teaching experience and relevant legal experience, or a combination of the above. The successful candidate will exhibit strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions and a commitment to pedagogical excellence. As this position will entail the teaching of one course or section of a course, together with office hours to meet with students, the incumbent will be expected to be on campus a minimum of one day a week during the teaching term. Flexibility in scheduling is required as some courses have already been scheduled.

Course Available:

Fall term:

Law 204: Corporate Law (online)

Corporate Law is intended to give students an introduction to corporate law, with a primary focus on the creation, structure and animus of the corporation. As we move to a highly fluid, dynamic, global and entrepreneurial business environment, many students will be seeking opportunities to start or participate in new ventures, and the proposed course will be an invaluable addition to the knowledge they will need to be successful. The course will provide students with an understanding of business associations, securities regulation and banking, as well as examining sources of business regulation. Taught on the assumption that the student has little to no knowledge of business or corporate law, Corporate Law will introduce students to the basic legal concepts associated with business and corporate structures, shareholder and partnership agreements, corporate governance and financing, and the protection of intellectual property. The course will also introduce students to statutes and cases that relevant in this area such as the CBCA and Solomon. Similar to the approach employed by business schools which emphasize case based analysis, the course will ask students to apply the concepts learning to specific case and problem scenarios.

Fall law classes begin on September 11, 2017 and end on December 1, 2017 with exams ending December 21, 2017.

The successful applicants will be required to teach 100% of each course or section. Anticipated enrollment in the online course is approximately 120. In keeping with faculty policy, the faculty may exercise its discretion to cancel any course with fewer than 10 enrolled students.

Interested persons are asked to submit their application addressed to Cherie Metcalf, Associate Dean (Academic), Queen's University Faculty of Law care of Sasha Lamont, Human Resources and Research

Manager at the email address below. The application should include an up-to-date C.V., a teaching dossier and the names of two referees who may be contacted.

The academic staff at Queen's are governed by a Collective Agreement between Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA) and the University which is posted at <http://www.queensu.ca/provost/faculty/facultyrelations/qufa/collectiveagreement.html>

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and Permanent Residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with Federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information about how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship, however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada". Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the recruitment process, please contact Sasha Lamont, Human Resources and Research Manager at sasha.lamont@queensu.ca.

For additional details and information on the positions and to submit applications, please contact Sasha Lamont, Human Resources and Research Manager at:

Sasha Lamont, Human Resources and Research Manager
Queen's University Faculty of Law
Telephone: 613-533-6000 ext. 74256
Email: sasha.lamont@queensu.ca