

Teaching Assistant Positions

Spring/Summer 2017

Posting date: March 6, 2017

Closing date: March 19, 2017

The Faculty of Law, Queen's University requests applications from suitably qualified graduate or J.D. students interested in teaching assistant positions for the following courses:

Law 201 Introduction to Canadian Law (Online)

An introduction to Canadian law and the legal system: legal processes and institutions, principles of legal reasoning and approaches to the analysis of law. Students will learn about the law governing relationships between individuals and between individuals and the state. Taught by law professors, with guest lecturers. Undergraduate law courses are available to non-JD students in the 2nd year of their program or higher.

Law 202 Aboriginal Law (Online)

An introduction to Canadian Aboriginal Law and related issues. Covers historical, social and political contexts in the development of current laws and the impact of emerging developments such as the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, Truth and Reconciliation Commission, and the national inquiry into missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls. Taught by Law Professors and guest lecturers. Undergraduate law courses are available to non-JD students in the 2nd year of their program or higher.

Law 203 Workplace Law (Online)

This course will introduce students to the various legal regimes that regulate work relations: the common law regime; the regulatory regime which includes employments standards, health and safety rules, and human rights; and the collective bargaining regime that applies to unionized workplaces. Students will understand that the law of work is a dynamic area, constantly affected by economic, historical, political and global forces.

Undergraduate law courses are available to non-JD students in the 2nd year of their program or higher.

Law 204 Corporate Law (Online)

This course introduces legal concepts that are essential to developing a business in Canada. This course will provide foundational knowledge in setting up and financing a business and will introduce legal content, analytical and practical skills relevant to a potential entrepreneur.

Undergraduate law courses are available to non-JD students in the 2nd year of their program or higher.

Applicants are required to have expertise in the field relevant to the course and excellent interpersonal skills. These teaching assistantships are for the support of online courses. Some training and preparation is needed before the start of the course. Those who are selected as Teaching Assistants are not required to remain in Kingston during the term. Candidates must be prepared to work outside the regular 9-5 work week, and have access to the internet and a computer that meets minimum requirements. Experience with learning management systems (e.g. OnQ) and video-conferencing software (e.g. Adobe Connect) would be an asset.

TA positions will be 12 weeks in length and about 60 hours of work per term. Remuneration is the greater of $19.92 per hour ($19.15 plus 4% vacation pay) and the minimum rate set for 2017-18.

Teaching Assistants hired for the fall term will be given priority for positions available in the winter term pending enrollment. Posting for winter term positions is expected mid-October 2016.

Graduate Teachings Assistants and Teaching Fellows at Queen's University are governed by the Collective Agreement for Teaching Assistants and Teaching Fellows between PSAC Local 901 and Queen's University. Remuneration will be in accordance with the Collective Agreement. Appointments are subject to enrolment figures and budgetary approval.

Please forward your application and supporting documentation via email to Sasha Lamont (sasha.lamont@queensu.ca), Human Resources and Research Manager

Completed applications should include:

1. Complete and current curriculum vitae
2. Statement of interest and relevant experience
3. Names and contact details of two professors who can act as references
4. SOLUS printout of grades or transcript
5. Any other relevant materials the candidate wishes to submit for consideration.

On your application, please also indicate whether you have already completed the following four online AODA training modules (required for all new Queen's employees). If needed, this training would be included in this position and would need to be completed within two weeks of the start date:

- AODA online training suite (4 modules):
<http://www.queensu.ca/equity/training>

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the application process, please contact Sasha Lamont.

For additional details and information on the position and to submit applications, please contact Sasha Lamont at:

Sasha Lamont, Human Resources and Research Manager
Macdonald Hall

128 Union Street
Kingston ON K7L 3N6
Sasha.lamont@queensu.ca; (613) 533-6000 ext. 74256