

Shape the Future of Canadian Insurance Law

*Queen's Law announces
a Graduate Student Fellowship in Insurance Law*

- PhD: up to $40,000 in annual funding for up to two years
- LLM: up to $30,000 for one year

Queen's Law is delighted to announce a Graduate Student Fellowship in Insurance Law at the Queen's University Faculty of Law.

The successful candidate will pursue doctoral (PhD) or masters-level (LLM) studies under the supervision of Professor Erik S. Knutsen on an insurance law topic related to Professor Knutsen's research project on Canadian and comparative insurance law: Floods, Fires, Crashes: Resolving Post-Disaster Insurance Coverage Conflicts in Canada. The project is federally funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council.

For doctoral students, he or she may be awarded up to $40,000 in funding for up to two years of the three year PhD program ($35,000 scholarship plus a $5,000 Research Assistantship for the first two years). For masters students (LLM), she or he may be awarded up to $30,000 in funding for one year of the LLM program ($25,000 plus a $5,000 Research Assistantship). Preference will be given to PhD applicants.

Insurance law affects almost every Canadian through its many facets: commercial, property, liability, automobile, life, health and more. Queen's Law is proud to provide this opportunity for advanced studies in this area.

All applicants to our graduate program who propose to pursue research on insurance law will be automatically considered for this Fellowship. The deadline for applications for graduate studies at Queen's Law is February 15, 2018. For more information about the Fellowship, or about pursuing PhD studies at Queen's Law, please visit <http://law.queensu.ca/graduate-program>, or write Dianne Flint, Graduate Studies Assistant, at lawgrad@queensu.ca.

