Paul Blustein is an author and journalist, specializing in economic issues, and is currently a Senior Fellow at the Centre for International Governance Innovation in Waterloo, Ontario. He spent much of his career reporting for The Washington Post and The Wall Street Journal, and he has authored six books focusing mainly on financial crises and global trade. His latest book, published in September 2019, is Schism: China, America and the Fracturing of the Global Trading System. Articles he has written in recent years have been published by Fortune, Slate, Politico, Foreign Policy, Bloomberg View, and other media outlets.

Mr. Blustein has degrees from the University of Wisconsin (BA, History), and from Oxford University, where as a Rhodes Scholar he studied Philosophy, Politics and Economics.

Andrea Bjorklund is a Full Professor, the L. Yves Fortier Chair in International Arbitration and International Commercial Law, and Associate Dean of Graduate Studies at McGill University Faculty of Law. In 2017, she was named one of McGill's Norton Rose Fulbright Scholars in International Arbitration and International Commercial Law. In Winter 2018, she was a Plumer Fellow at St. Anne's College and a Visiting Fellow in the Law Faculty, University of Oxford.

In addition to serving as an adviser to the American Law Institute's project on restating the U.S. law of international commercial arbitration, Professor Bjorklund is a member of the Advisory Board of the Investment Treaty Forum of the British Institute for International and Comparative Law. She was the inaugural ICSID Scholar-in-Residence for 2014-2015 and Editor-in-Chief of the Yearbook on International Investment Law and Policy (OUP) from 2012 to 2015. She sits on the panel of arbitrators of the AAA's International Centre for Dispute Resolution and on the roster of NAFTA Chapter 19 arbitrators. She is widely published in investment law and dispute resolution and transnational contracts.

Prior to joining McGill, Professor Bjorklund taught at the University of California, Davis, School of Law. Before entering the academy, she was an attorney-adviser on the NAFTA arbitration team in the Office of the Legal Adviser of the U.S. Department of State, in addition to periods at the U.S. International Trade Commission and in private practice at Miller & Chevalier in Washington, D.C. She clerked for Judge Samuel J. Ervin, III, of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Professor Bjorklund has a J.D. from Yale Law School, an M.A. in French Studies from New York University, and a B.A. (with High Honors) in History and French from the University of Nebraska.

Joshua Karton is an Associate Professor and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies and Research at Queen's Law, where he has taught since 2009. Professor Karton's research and teaching interests are in international dispute resolution (in particular international arbitration), international and comparative contract law, conflict of laws, and sociology of law (especially law and globalization). Outside of his academic work, Professor Karton is active in the arbitration community as a consultant, arbitrator, and educator. He is a General Editor of Kluwer Arbitration Practical Insights, a leading online guide for international arbitration practitioners; the Managing Editor of the Canadian Journal of Commercial Arbitration, which he co-founded; and a faculty member of the Toronto Commercial Arbitration Society's "Gold Standard" course, the premier professional training program for commercial arbitrators in Canada. He received a BA in International Relations and Humanities from Yale in 2001, a JD from Columbia Law School in 2005, and a PhD in International Law from Cambridge in 2011. A member of the New York Bar, he practised in the New York and Hong Kong offices of Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP before commencing his doctoral studies.

Nicolas Lamp has been an Assistant Professor since 2014 at the Faculty of Law at Queen's University, where he is also cross-appointed to the School of Policy Studies. In 2016, he became the Academic Director of the International Law Programs. Since 2019, he has also been the Director of the Annual Queen's Institute on Trade Policy, a professional training course for Canadian trade officials that is hosted by the Queen's School of Policy Studies.

Prior to joining Queen's, Professor Lamp worked as a Dispute Settlement Lawyer at the Appellate Body Secretariat of the World Trade Organization, where he advised the Members of the Appellate Body on legal issues arising in appellate proceedings under the WTO's dispute settlement mechanism. His teaching subjects include Contracts, International Trade Law, the International Trade Law Practicum, and Public International Law. Professor Lamp received his PhD in Law from the London School of Economics and Political Science in 2013. His doctoral thesis on "Lawmaking in the Multilateral Trading System" investigates the origins and implications of the discourses, practices and techniques that shape international lawmaking in the trade context. His current research focuses on competing narratives about the winners and losers from economic globalization. His co-authored book (with Anthea Roberts) titled Six Faces of Globalization: Who Wins, Who Loses, and Why It Matters is forthcoming from Harvard University Press in October 2021.

Darryl Robinson is a professor at Queen's University, Faculty of Law. His research and publications seek to build a fair, humanistic, and inclusive system of international justice, and he is involved in various projects to that end.

Previously, he was a Hauser Global Scholar at New York University School of Law (LL.M International Legal Studies), and a clerk at the Supreme Court of Canada. He served as a Legal Officer at Foreign Affairs Canada from 1997-2003, where his work in the creation of the International Criminal Court earned him a Minister's Citation and a Minister's Award for Foreign Policy Excellence. He joined the International Criminal Court as an adviser to the Chief Prosecutor from 2004 to 2006. From 2006-2008, he was the Director of the University of Toronto International Human Rights Clinic, working on cases before national and international courts.

Matthew Secomb is a partner in White & Case's International Arbitration Group in Singapore. Dr. Secomb specializes in international commercial arbitration with a focus on construction and energy-related disputes. He has been involved in arbitrations under most of the major institutional rules as well as in ad hoc arbitrations. Dr. Secomb also provides commercial advice, particularly with regard to oil and gas related issues. Before moving to Singapore in 2015, he was based in White & Case's Paris office for nearly ten years. He has a B.Com. and an LL.M. from the University of Melbourne, an LL.B. from Deakin University, and a Doctorat en droit (summa cum laude) from the Université de Fribourg (Switzerland). He is qualified as an avocat at the Paris bar, a solicitor advocate in England & Wales, and a barrister and solicitor in Victoria, Australia.

Prior to joining White & Case in 2006, Dr. Secomb was counsel to the ICC International Court of Arbitration, where he oversaw thousands of arbitrations, spanning almost all industry sectors and regions. Before moving to France in 2001, he worked at Minter Ellison, a leading Australian law firm.
