

DEAR LAW '21 GRADUATES,

On behalf of the Faculty of Law, I would like to extend my sincere congratulations on completing your studies and reaching this significant milestone in your academic journey. You have persevered under extraordinary circumstances, amidst a global health crisis, and will be well-positioned to take on whatever comes next in your career, and thrive in a rapidly evolving world.

You represent the next generation of legal scholars, practitioners, policy-makers, and corporate leaders who will be addressing the pressing issues of tomorrow. You are also joining the proud tradition of Queen's Law graduates and alum who are the long-term stewards of the ideals of this institution, its principles, and its commitment to advancing access to justice, public service, and legal excellence.

One of the defining features of Queen's Law is its commitment to community, both in terms of a supportive environment among students, faculty, and staff, and lifelong network of accomplished leaders in the legal profession. We look forward to celebrating your accomplishments together on-campus, and we hope that you will remain connected to the Queen's Law community, both now and in the future.

Congratulations on your achievements, and thank you for your tireless efforts, determination and excellence in reaching this incredible moment.

Regards,

Mark Walters, Dean, Faculty of Law, Queen's University
