The Faculty of Law, Queen’s University, requests applications from suitably qualified LL.M or PhD students interested in a teaching assistant position for the following course:

Law 334 - Legal Ethics (starting in the fall 2019)
This introductory survey course explores legal ethics primarily by reviewing the rules of professional conduct developed by the Law Society of Ontario and the Federation of Law Societies. The principle goal of the course is to help students develop a basic framework within which to understand and analyze legal ethical issues as they are encountered by lawyers.

Qualifications
Successful applicants will be expected to have expertise, or at least demonstrated interest, in the field relevant to the course. Preference will be given to candidates with experience as teaching assistants or who otherwise demonstrate the teaching or coaching and communication skills required, and who have excellent interpersonal skills.

Candidates must be prepared to work outside the regular 9-5 work week, and have access to the internet and a computer that meets minimum requirements. Experience with learning management systems (e.g. OnQ) and video-conferencing software (e.g. Zoom) would be an asset.

Application Procedure
Applications should include a complete and current curriculum vitae, a statement of interest and relevant experience, the names and contact details of two referees who may be contacted, and any other relevant materials the candidate wishes to submit for consideration.
