Events

Visiting Speaker: Loretta Ross
Monday, February 25, 2019, 1:00 - 2:30pm, Room 201

Treaty Relations Commission of Manitoba

Justice McLeod’s class on Critical Race Theory
Monday, February 25, 2019, 2:30 – 5:30, Room 300, Macdonald Hall

Ardi Imseis - Beyond Surveillance: Settler Colonialism and the Fragmentation and Control of Occupied Palestine
Wednesday, February 27, 2019, 12:30 – 2 pm, Mackintosh Corry Hall D411

This lecture discusses some of the multifarious means by which Israel’s “temporary” 51-year occupation of the OPT has been maintained. It demonstrates that far from mere surveillance, Israel’s actions in the OPT are driven by ongoing settler colonialism, fragmentation and control.

Queen’s Commerce Law Association
Wednesday, February 27, 2019 - 5:30, Room 201

QCLA is the first Commerce Society ratified association dedicated to educating students about law. QCLA works to foster interest in law and facilitate student connections with the Canadian legal community. On February 27, QCLA will be holding their annual LSAT Bootcamp. The LSAT Bootcamp is dedicated to providing students with in-depth insight on the law school application process and the LSAT specifically. This year, we will be having a faculty member from the Queen’s Law School speak about the admissions process. Additionally, there will be several Queen’s Law students who will be there to speak about their experiences and answer any questions people may have.

Reconciliation on Bay Street
One of the takeaways from an in-depth interview with Professor Nicolas Lamp at BRINK News

“A corporation, if they want to stem backlash, could consider engaging in less-aggressive tax strategizing. They could do more about workers’ rights.”

One of the takeaways from an in-depth interview with Professor Nicolas Lamp at BRINK News: leading thinking on globalization and trade at http://www.brinknews.com/how-do-we-think-about-the-winners/…

2L Spencer Abraham is featured on Tuesday Morning Skate from U SPORTS
