Introduction

We are proud to present the Queen's Law Faculty Annual Research Report for 2015-2016. It was another two prolific and impressive years for Queen's Law faculty members, who published dozens of books, chapters, articles, and reports on a diverse range of legal topics. Our faculty members also presented their research at conferences around the globe, engaged in many of the most important political and legal debates of the year, hosted visits from prominent scholars from many countries to the Faculty of Law, and organized a wide range of scholarly, professional, and political conferences and other events. As Queen's takes an increasingly prominent place among the country's and the world's great law schools, the pages of this Report show our scholars to be among the most innovative and productive legal scholars anywhere.

- Joshua Karton, Associate Dean (Graduate Studies & Research)

In 2015 and 2016, 23 books and 39 book chapters written or edited by Queen's Law faculty members were published or translated into other languages. Over 50 journal articles covered topics including tax havens, the family justice system, copyright use and corporate law.

Approximately 240 papers and presentations were delivered at conferences and workshops ranging from the International Strategy Meeting of the Center for Economic and Social Rights in Lima, Peru to the International Academy of Law and Mental Health Congress in Vienna, Austria.

Studies and reports to judicial, governmental and legislative bodies addressed such topics as employment standards complaint resolution, tax reform for Timor-Leste, national standards for Canada's Child Advocacy centres, and prisoner litigation.

Queen's Law hosted conferences and workshops on Trafficking in Women (FLSQ); Union Participation on Boards of Directors (CLCW); and Workplace Pensions (CLCW).

In addition, the Faculty of Law hosted over 35 distinguished visitors from around the world, who spoke on topics including gender equality in the workplace, the system of shadow payments, the Charter and the struggle for disability rights, and Law & Religion—to cite a few examples.

Interdisciplinary research is among the distinctive strengths of Queen's Law. Many of our scholars undertake work in cognate disciplines, and collaborate with researchers in other fields.

Five new faculty members joined our ranks in 2015-16, further enriching the scholarly strength at Queen's Law. Mohammed Khimji, inaugural David Allgood Professor in Business Law, expert in corporate securities and commercial transactions. Gail Henderson, expert in corporate law and financial regulation. Lisa Kelly, expert in criminal and family law. Jacob Weinrib, expert in legal philosophy and public law. Lisa Kerr, expert in criminal law, sentencing and prison law.
