

Master's in Political and Legal Thought

Queen's UNIVERSITY

www.queensu.ca/sgs/political-and-legal-thought

This 12-month program is an exciting opportunity to work intensively in an important interdisciplinary field with leading scholars in a lively intellectual community. Students receive a Master of Arts in Philosophy or Political Studies, or a Master of Laws.

"The creation of a collaborative MA in Political and Legal Thought at Queen's University is an inspired idea, showcasing a long tradition of strength with a significant presence internationally as well as in Canada. The program is a boon to students who will find a wonderful grounding for further studies in Law, Philosophy and Politics." David Dyzenhaus, Professor of Law and Philosophy, Albert Abel Chair, and University Professor, University of Toronto

Participating Faculty

Jacqueline Davies (Phil) – feminisms, critical social theory, gender and sexuality

Benjamin Ewing (Law) - criminal law theory

Paul Fairfield (Phil) – hermeneutics and education

Colin Farrelly (Pols) – justice and the biomedical sciences, ideal/non-ideal theory

Kerah Gordon-Solmon (Phil) – practical ethics, political philosophy

Leslie Green (Law) - jurisprudence

Rahul Kumar (Phil) - moral psychology and moral theory

Will Kymlicka (Phil) – animals and political theory, multiculturalism, citizenship

Andrew Lister (Pols) - distributive justice, democracy, public reason, libertarianism

Eleanor MacDonald (Pols) – identity politics, critical theory, feminist theory

Alistair Macleod (Phil) – human rights, distributive justice

David Miller (Phil) – global justice and responsibility

Margaret Moore (Pols) – international political theory, ethics of territory

Darryl Robinson (Law) - international human rights, international criminal law

Udo Schüklenk (Phil) – bioethics, end-of-life, public health ethics

Mick Smith (Phil) – environmental ethics, ecology and social and political theory

Christine Sypnowich (Phil) – egalitarianism, philosophy of law

Jean Thomas (Law) – private law theory, philosophy of rights, equality and discrimination

Sabine Tsuruda (Law) – workers' rights, egalitarianism

Ashwini Vasanthakumar (Law) - migration, citizenship and transnational politics

Grégoire Webber (Law) – constitutional theory, philosophy of law

Jacob Weinrib (Law) – political philosophy, constitutional theory

SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDIES