The Faculty of Law at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor, or a tenured faculty position at the rank of Associate Professor, with specialization in international economic law, with a preferred starting date of July 1, 2026.

Qualifications

The Faculty of Law seeks scholars who are or have the potential to become nationally and internationally recognized for their work. Except in exceptional circumstances, the successful candidate will have a JD or equivalent and a graduate degree in law or within a cognate discipline. The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output that demonstrates a history of, and potential for, independent research with a track record of peer assessed publications in top journals and the securing of external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the JD/LLB and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the Faculty of Law's programs. Candidates must provide evidence of an ability to work collaboratively in an interdisciplinary and student-centred environment. The successful candidate will also be expected to make contributions through service to the Faculty, the University, and/or the broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

About Queen's Law

Nationally and internationally recognized as a leading law school, Queen's Law has a distinguished record of outstanding teaching and research. Located in historic Kingston, Ontario, Queen's Law has a proud history of faculty and student engagement. Queen's Law has a curriculum and research profile that includes Canada's largest international law program.

Queen's Law is a recognized leader in international law, offering students and scholars exceptional opportunities to engage with global issues. The International Law program is an intensive eight-week summer program delivered in part at Bader College, located at the historic Herstmonceux Castle in Southern England. The program features three specialized streams, including International Business Law, which attracts students from Queen's and other Canadian law schools, proving them with an immersive experience in international economic law subjects. Queen's Law also offers the International Trade Law Practicum, a clinical course that connects student teams with real-world clients, such as governments (including the federal, provincial, and foreign governments), international organizations, Indigenous communities, and small businesses. In addition, the faculty co-hosts the Queen's Institute on Trade Policy, Canada's premier training course for trade officials, with the Queen's School of Policy Studies.

Queen's Law also prides itself on a robust business law program, which includes experiential learning opportunities through our Business Law Clinic. Queen's Law leads Canadian law schools in interdisciplinary study opportunities, including programs that combine JD studies with Business, Economics, Public Administration, and Industrial Relations. Queen's Law is also home to vibrant LLM and PhD programs that draw students from around the world, leading research groups in Criminal Law, International Law, Feminist Legal Studies and Public Law, an interdisciplinary Colloquium in Legal and Political Philosophy, and experiential learning opportunities through five clinical programs in Business Law, Prison Law, Elder Law, Family Law, and Queen's Legal Aid. In addition, the Conflict Analytics Lab offers JD students unique experiential learning opportunities for study and research on developing legal AI applications.

About Queen's University

Queen's University has a long history of scholarship, discovery, and innovation that shapes our collective knowledge and helps address some of the world's most pressing concerns.
